3 in Florida on top list

Three Florida universities made U.S. News and World Report's 2006 list for the country's top graduate business schools.

The University of Florida's Warrington School of Business ranked highest in Florida, placing 42nd among 189 schools ranked for overall quality.

The University of Miami's graduate business school placed 74th; Florida International University placed 22nd of 25 in a specialty ranking of schools offering graduate programs in international business.
