

June 2006

➤ Miami-Dade

BUSINESS BRIEFS

MIAMI-DADE — Florida International University has received a $1-million gift from Office Depot to support the university's "Building for Business" campaign for construction of a College of Business Administration complex. The gift will generate an additional $1 million in state matching funds. ➤ Datamyne, a trade database and software company based jointly in Uruguay and Argentina, has established a U.S. headquarters in Miami, employing 25. ➤ Miami-based fast-food chain Pollo Tropical, which specializes in Latin-style grilled chicken, has opened a store in North Bergen, N.J., its first foray out of state since a failed multistate expansion a decade ago. Pollo Tropical operates 60 company-owned restaurants in Florida; 20 franchised units operate in Latin America and the Caribbean. ➤ Six Miami-Dade school teachers were fired and 26 resigned amid a growing scandal over bogus continuing education courses. School board officials are still trying to determine how many teachers paid a private company, whose founder is now in prison on fraud charges, for course credits