Albert Santalo, founder, president and chief executive officer of Avisena, a Miami-based billing and collections company, was the 2006 inductee into the Florida International University Entrepreneurship Hall of Fame. Santalo was honored at the seventh annual luncheon ceremony on May 17. The event celebrates the university's College of Business Administration's ongoing commitment to entrepreneurship and recognizes alumni who not only are successful entrepreneurs but who have also contributed significantly to the entrepreneurial business community.
