

October 19, 2004

Education

- Randy Anderson has joined Florida International University's College of Business Administration as Ryder Eminent Scholar and professor of real estate/finance. Previously, Anderson was academic director of the William Newman real estate program at the City University of New York and as the same time was chief economist and director of research for The Marcus & Millichap Co. in Palo Alto, Calif.