FIU offers course for full-time workers

Florida International University's College of Business Administration will begin offering a new undergraduate business degree in management for full-time working professionals in January.

FIU is calling the degree the Early Bird Bachelor of Business Administration, with classes running from 7:30 a.m.-8:45 a.m. in six 12-week sessions, FIU said in a statement.

Classes will take place at the university's Pines Center in Pembroke Pines.

The course will offer both on-line and on-site deliveries to accommodate students' busy schedules.
